

The Future of Homo sapiens

A Manning Clark House conference in honor of Phillip Adams

Keynote address by Phillip Adams: Homo sapiens: where-to now?

Talks by leading scientists, public intellectuals, philosophers, theologians, economists, politicians and lawyers on the following themes:

The biological origins and evolution of the Genus Homo.

Microbes and Humans: a Darwinian struggle.

Fire and human evolution: Homo's entropy blueprint

Global warming and future climate change projections.

What kind of humans in the Anthropocene?

The sociology and politics of climate change.

The spiritual dimension of global change.

The rise and fall of civilizations and their art.

The metaphysics of human survival.

Global change and the future of Homo sapiens.

Implications of global climate change for Australia.

Climate change economics in Australia.

Crimes against the Earth.

From the Anthro-pocene to the Eco-cene: a message of Hope.

8:30 – 20.30, Tuesday, 9th October, 2012; Lower Ground Floor
National Library of Australia, Canberra, A.C.T.

Bookings : info@manningclark.org.au Ph. 61 (02) 6295 1808

Adult $55, MCH member $45, Students $7